[Rules for using the dedicated board]

The dedicated board is a tool for everyone to discuss and think together. Please don't post anything that may make other people feel uncomfortable or that criticizes their opinions without good reason.

The posts on the special board can be seen by anyone. Please don't post personal information that could identify you or other people, such as your real name, address or phone number.

Note: If a post doesn't follow the rules, the administrators might delete it or refuse to publish it. Please note this in advance.
